What unique skills or expertise set you apart in your industry?

As a former defense lawyer and a family member of a medical malpractice victim, I uniquely blend empathy, power and strategic advocacy in each case for families facing life-altering injuries. My expertise was recognized this year when I was named one of the Top 50 Virginia Women Super Lawyers and within the Top 100 Virginia Super Lawyers.

What aspect of your work fuels your passion daily?

Seeing clients regain confidence and dignity and achieve transformative results keeps me driven. Whether negotiating a life-changing settlement or standing up to a corporate defendant and their insurance carrier in litigation, I never lose sight of the people behind the cases.

How do you define power in your field?

Power in personal injury litigation means creating change by holding wrongdoers accountable and restoring hope for families. In Tyson's Trial Law's first two years of business, we helped our clients achieve over $15 million in settlements and recoveries--utilizing our influence to be a strong litigious voice that told their stories and reshaped their futures for good.

Who's an influential industry figure from whom you derive inspiration?

Women are redefining what it means to be a trial lawyer as they build legal practices rooted in compassion, excellence and integrity. These leaders inspire me to continue being a fierce advocate grounded in my values who prioritizes client care and team well-being.

Is there business advice you impart to future Power Players?

Authenticity, clear values and grit will take you further than perfectionism.

Where do you go in the DMV area to unwind and recharge from the hustle of your workweek?

I spend plenty of time on the sidelines of my son's soccer games, walking our two Labradoodles and trying new restaurants with my husband.

How do you balance the pursuit of professional and personal fulfillment?

Success isn't sustainable without balance and reflection, so I intentionally set goals and look ahead to what's next. I protect my time with my family, delegate at my law firm thoughtfully and schedule work around personal events and priorities.
